A: function get_friends (objUserId) { var pageToken = null; var collection; var friends; do { pageToken = null; collection = facebook.api(objUserId + "/me/friends", "GET", { access_token: accessToken }); friends = collection.data; console.log(facebook.api()); } while (pageToken != null); return friends; } Q: Change the request URL query to be displayed in the browser I would like to change the URL query to a request I will pass to a js script. For example: to When my js script gets this (if it displays the URL), it will check the parameter and do something with it. My point is, to hide the URL query sent by the user, because the test parameter is sent by the js script. I'm not very familiar with URL encoding, but I read about URL encoding. As I expected, the URL was displayed and parsed to JS on display in the browser console. UPDATE This is my query: var query = "test=A&comments=Google, No one/Everyone"; This is my js script: if(arguments[0]) { var some_data = (JSON.parse(arguments[0])); alert(some_data.test); } Here's my debug console output:

Tanzanian children's tobacco use patterns: implications for health and education. This study examined the prevalence and correlates of tobacco use among primary and secondary school children in Tanzania. Using an interviewer administered questionnaire, the study showed that the prevalence of current smoking among boys and girls varied from 4% to 12%, with more girls than boys smoking. The pattern of smoking was also age-related, being most common among those aged 13-15 years. As in many other parts of the developing world, in Tanzania tobacco use is a culturally sanctioned method of self-administration of psychoactive substances. Given the absence of strategies to prevent and control cigarette smoking by adolescents, there is a strong case for tobacco control programs to be adapted to suit the needs of this group of children.
