Everything works fine as long as I don't set the CellStyle property of my DataGridViewColumns. If I do set the CellStyle property, all the cells become black. But if I change the DataGridViewRowHeaderCellStyle property, then the cells become white again. How can I force the DataGridView to use the white cells only in this case? A: I think you can fix the problem with CellStyle like this: `dataGridView1.CellStyle = null; dataGridView1.CellStyle = dataGridView1.DefaultCellStyle;` This item has been removed from the community because it violates Steam Community & Content Guidelines. Some children will make such statements when they want to know if some physical experience is possible; for example, they may inquire, “Can I ride a Ferris wheel?” How can we respond to a child’s expressions of doubt? As parents, we sometimes take such comments as a sign that there is something wrong in our child’s life.
